

Download A Short History Of Irelands Famine

Short Histories

I - 6 'The terrible visitation': famine in Finland and Ireland, 1845 to 1866' Towards an agenda for comparative Irish-Finnish famine studies Andrew G. Newby and Timo Myllyntaus Ireland and Finland: 'long nineteenth-century' comparisons Crop failure and famine was a recurrent feature of pre-industrial Europe, persisting - well into the late nineteenth century. Drogheda was founded as two separately administered towns in two different territories: Drogheda-in-Meath (i.e. the Lordship and Liberty of Meath, from which a charter was granted in 1194) and Drogheda-in-Oriel (or 'Uriel', as County Louth was then known). The division came from the twelfth-century boundary between two Irish kingdoms, colonised by different Norman interests, just as the River ... County Leitrim (/ ˈl iː t r ɪ m / LEE-trɪm, Irish: Contae Liatroma) is a county in the Republic of Ireland. It is in the province of Connacht and is part of the Border Region. It is named after the village of Leitrim. Leitrim County Council is the local authority for the county, which had a population of 32,044 according to the 2016 census. The county encompasses the historic Gaelic ... Thousands of Irish genealogy links categorised for the use of researchers. This is family history research made easy: point, click, and read. Possibly the swiftest route to your roots.